Inspiring others to achieve their dreams and even meet Kings as they Raise their High Bar of Performance!

Is your school looking for a positive way to empower your students and faculty while meeting district and state needs for bullying, suicide prevention, and setting goals after school? Then look no further to Brandon Kelly.

In fifth grade the bullying got so bad that he started to protect himself, then he was inducted into a gang for his own protection. By sixth grade a scout mentor helped him get out of the gang and start to leave a legacy of training, leadership, setting life changing goals, and setting state records.

In his teenage years he faced living on his own, uncertainty, excelling in sports, fighting cancer, going to college early, and completing a bucket-list of 2000 plus items. He then managed to survive two accidents with dump trucks.

Your students will learn how to recognize and deal with bullies. They will learn how to become a H.E.R.O, and how to overcome life's hurdles with Brandon's system for setting and achieving goals with a high bar to measure.

He has had leadership and adventure in all 50 states and in 30+ countries including having been presented the 2nd highest award for serving youth in Scouting around the world by the HRH King of Sweden while a guest of the HMS Queen of England in 2007. He has completed Bachelors in Business, an MBA, and a Doctorate in Entrepreneurial Acquisitions from London, England.

Brandon is a professional speaker and trainer, as well as a business expert. He is finishing his second and third book The ABC's of Business Survival, Revival, and Thrival in the modern economy and the Watermark Principles. His amazing story will motivate and inspire your school to achieve the best they can!

Brandon has extensive experience in many facets of leadership, management and business. He directed the start-up of four businesses and served VP of Sales and also as CEO.
